To STATE Water Resources Control Board
From Mr & Mrs S D Judd

We spent our entire working years raising a family and buying a home. When we retired we sold our city home and bought a small place in the country near the Stanislaus river. First we have almond conglomerates moving in and over-pumping groundwater. Now it seems you're intent to send more water seaward. Less surface water available to agriculture means they will pump even more. If wells go dry they will drill deeper and get more. We small people can't afford to keep drilling deeper, what happens to us? With no water our house becomes unlivable and unsellable.

IT is Time for The State to see to it that ~~everyone~~ everyone gets a fair share of the water, not just the big money people.
